Continuing professional development credits for authors registered with the Health Professions Council of South Africa (HPCSA)

Each author of a peer reviewed submission may be eligible to receive CEUs in accordance with the HPCSA CPD criteria. Each author who is eligible for CEUs should email the CPD chairperson of the Society of Radiographers of SA at sorsacpd@gmail.com within 10 days of the publication of their peer reviewed paper on www.sar.org.za. Each author must include the following in the email by the deadline: (i) Name and surname of author, (ii) HPCSA number (e.g. DR number), and (iii) a copy of the first page of their published paper on www.sar.org.za showing the title and names of authors.

In-house layout and formatting

Authors to use italics without inverted commas for verbatim responses/comments of participants in qualitative research. The comments/responses in italics to be indented within the manuscript. Authors to read the online instructions for layout of papers/case reports. Vancouver system to be used for referencing. For example, the findings of a study by Smith and Jones ^[1] underscore the importance of informed consent in research. Their findings are in keeping with the literature ^[3-7].

Reserved rights

All proprietary rights, other than copyright, are reserved to the authors, as well as the right to reproduce original figures and tables from this item in their future works, provided full credit is given to the original publication in The South African Radiographer (SAR).

Originality

The author/s warrant that this submission is an original work and neither this work nor one with substantially similar content has been published elsewhere or in part [except in abstract form] and that it has only been submitted to this publication and will not be submitted elsewhere pending notice of acceptance or rejection by this journal.

Artificial intelligence (AI) declaration

Author/s must declare the use of AI or AI-generated tools in their manuscript that they uploaded online.

Withdrawal of a manuscript by author/s

The above manuscript may be withdrawn by the author/s before undergoing peer review. Note that withdrawal of the above manuscript while in the review stage or awaiting publication will require payment of costs by the author/s before the editors approve their request. The editor will email a withdrawal form to be completed as well as details of amount to be paid. The author/s must acknowledge the peer review process of the SAR if the withdrawn manuscript (revisions required, accepted, or rejected) is submitted in part or in its entirety to other journals.
